New Year's Eve at Brooklyn's most eclectic club, Body Temple, bills itself as "the freest celebration in urban New York City."

Featured at the club will be GlobeSonic Sound System DJs Fabian Alsultany and Derek Beres, "burning up the dance floor with their lush, electro-epic, world-beat sauce ushering in the magic carpet ride to the tantric divine."

Be a part of the Midnight New Year's Countdown with the Drop of the Body Temple Ball.

Other highlights of the night include: aerial dance & cirque nouveau by FireFlyDance, visuals by The Love Intelligence Group, transformational art by Marshall Arisman, The Body Temple Drummers and Performers, Urban Gypsy Circus Body Painters, The Lovelixer Chill Lounge, reflexology and body work massages and The Live Café, featuring sensual food, elixirs, and "raw chocolate decadence."

Also on hand will be Parashakti's Shamanic DanceRitual, Dages' Kundalini Experience, Rabbi Ohad's New Moon Tantric-Kabbalah and more.

The New Year's Party takes place at the historic Brooklyn Lyceum, a former gigantic bath house converted into a beautiful theater. It is at 227 4th Avenue (corner of President Street) in Park Slope. Tickets at the door (space permitting) are $45. For more, e-mail info@bodytemple.info. If you go to their website, www.bodytemple.info and pay in advance, on-line admission is only $35.
